

building global citizens: a public dialogue

A national exhibition exploring Canada's global leadership role

The Nickle Arts Museum

University of Calgary campus

Thursday, April 3, 2008

4:30 to 6pm
followed by a networking reception

Bridges that Unite exhibition Nickle Arts Museum

April 1-13, 2008

Open 10am to 5pm
Thursdays until 9pm

Building Global Citizens will explore how Canada can ensure its citizens are instilled with the knowledge, values, and skills required to succeed and contribute effectively in a globalized environment. Canadian universities and colleges, the private sector, government and civil society organizations all play an important role in promoting global citizens. How do we improve opportunities for collaboration and learning across sectors and institutions? Does Canada have unique national assets and experiences upon which we can draw?

Knowledge is becoming the undisputed centrepiece of global prosperity and lack of it, the core of human impoverishment.

—Jeffrey Sachs

Building Global Citizens will bring together a diverse cross-section of perspectives and experiences from Canadian institutions and individuals, offering participants an opportunity to engage in a dialogue on Canada's unique assets and expertise and discuss ways in which our institutions can help foster Canadians who can meet the challenges and opportunities of our interconnected world.

Admission is free but space is limited.
Please register at rsvp@bridgesthatunite.ca by April 2, 2008

An initiative of:
AGA KHAN FOUNDATION CANADA
An agency of the Aga Khan Development Network